Farmin' the old time way

Raleigh Jenkins of Old Ky. 172, shown here plowing corn behind his 900 pound Haflinger mare, Aleisha, enjoys farming the old-time way. Jenkins said he "just recently got her broke and she cultivates good." The plow he's using belonged to the late Ova Pelfrey and shortly after this photo was made, Jenkins said, his son backed over it in his truck. Jenkins' is now trying to find a new set of plow handles, items that aren't easy to lay hands on now a days. As for the mare's name, he said that was his grandson's idea. "And he named the mare's colt Diego.

Open House for adults wishing to return to college

WEST LIBERTY, Ky. — MSU at West Liberty will host an "Adult Student Back to School Open House" to help area residents achieve the dream of a college education.

The informational session will be held at the MSU at West Liberty campus on Thursday, July 20, at 7 p.m.

Representatives will be available to explain how to apply to MSU, how to return to MSU if it has been a while since attending, how to transfer credits from another institution and how to access financial aid resources. Information about academic programs, including those offered in West Liberty, will be available.

"We are pleased to provide this opportunity to help adults start college or return to college if those plans were interrupted in the past," said MSU at West Liberty Director Jonell Tobin.

Fall classes begin on Monday, Aug. 21. Last fall, more than 400 adults completed college classes at MSU at West Liberty.

Additional information is available from Dr. Jonell Tobin by calling (606) 743-1500.

City car stickers for 2006-07 available now at City Hall

West Liberty city car stickers for July 1, 2006, to June 30, 2007, are now available now at City Hall. The cost is $10.00

Odd cabbage

Wanda Hamilton, treasurer of the Morgan County Farmers Market, doesn't always get cabbages like the "one" she's holding to sell at the market. This whopper is not only notable for its huge size, it didn't grow off quite right. It's the largest of a conjoined cluster of ten smaller cabbages that all grew from the same stalk. It was grown by Bill Jones of Silverhill, who said it's a Bonnie Hybrid variety. Wendell Williams, a gardener of note who also sells produce at the Farmers Market and who knows a lot about such things, hefted it and said he'd bet five ears of his best sweet corn it weighed 28 pounds.

Ag Board secures funding for more improvement grants

Chairman David Lane and fellow members of the Morgan County Agricultural Development Board have announced that applications from the Morgan County Agricultural Development Council for four more improvement grants will be made available beginning next Monday, July 24. Grants to be offered include Cattle Handling Facilities, Goat/Sheep Diversification, Livestock Fencing and Hay Storage.

A new menu application format will be used. Farmers will rank one through four the programs that they are most interested in receiving. Due to limited funds, applications will be ranked to fund the most farmers possible. If applicants have received funds for fencing or hay storage within the last 18 months, they will not be eligible again for these programs, but are eligible for cattle handling facilities and goat/sheep diversification.

Grant amounts for each program will vary, but still must be matched dollar for dollar on a cost share basis. For example, if you are approved for $1,000 in funding, you must spend $2,000 with documented receipts to be reimbursed $1,000. It is roughly estimated that grants for hay storage will be $3,500 and $1,500 each for the cattle handling, goat/sheep and fencing programs. All projects must fall within the state guidelines adopted by the Morgan County Agricultural Development Council as outlined in the application packet.

Applications are available at the Morgan County Extension Office (110 Court St.), the Morgan County Judge Executive's Office (450 Prestonsburg St.), and farm stores beginning July 24. All grants must be postmarked by August 11 and mailed to the County Judge's office 450 Prestonsburg St., West Liberty, KY 41472. Applications must be fully completed and a farm serial number must be supplied. Hand delivered applications will not be accepted. Delivery confirmation is high encouraged.

Mandatory educational meetings will be offered by the Extension Service. The dates of these meetings will be announced in the approval letter. The Council will meet monthly September through December on the second Tuesday to approve receipts. Payment from the Morgan County Fiscal Court, which serves as the administering agency, will be made within 30 days of notification

Morgan County residents are being invited to participate in the development of a Strategic Development Plan for the city and county at a public meeting scheduled Monday, July 31. The meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council Meeting Room at West Liberty City Hall.

West Liberty and the Morgan County Fiscal Court have been awarded a Flex-E grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission to fund the planning, which will include assessing local programs and issues and then providing realistic solutions for improving the performance from the Council. Receipts must submitted by December 8, 2006, for reimbursement. Reimbursement will not be made until all required report forms are completed. All grants are considered income and an IRS form 1099 will be issued by January 31, 2007. Receipts will be accepted from January 1 of this year. No additional programs are expected to be offered until July, 2007.

Following is a summary citing the highlights of each program. Guidelines will be given in the full application. Requirements may also be found on the website HYPERLINK "http://www.kyagpolicy.com" www.kyagpolicy.com. Select "Help For Farmers" from menu.

Relay for Life at Cannel City Elementary

The little school with heart has proven to be a leader with the fight against cancer. Just before the school year ended, students united to bring forth community spirit, fun and hope to those battling the disease.

Prior to the school's Relay for Life, students began raising money by selling gum balls purchased by students by saving their snack money and hand-made crafts designed by the students themselves. Students also sold stars of hope and remembrance with names of cancer victims displayed on a huge banner during the event.

The staff gave a helping hand to help find a cure by taking a pie in the face. Principal, Mrs. Whitt, Sherry Elam, Jackie Conley, Blair Benton and Robin Phipps were all willing participants in the very popular pie throw.

Local artist, Bridgett Easterling, was present to sing and kick start the students' talent and singing abilities.

Principal Brenda Whitt would like to extend a warm thank you to all of the participants and the community for their involvement. A special thank you to Lisa Hoskins for coordinating the event and to our Academic Team for being so motivated to help. CCES was very proud to grant the Morgan County Relay for Life over $300.00 on behalf of our students.

Web conferencing workshops held for area teachers

The Morgan County Regional Technology Center and the University of Kentucky recently completed a series of workshops that resulted in web conferencing equipment and training for 225 regional math and science teachers, principals, technology coordinators and central office personnel.

"The purpose of the workshops was to place technology equipment in the hands of regional teachers and train them on its use so they can more effectively and efficiently engage in on-line workshops, conferences and courses from the convenience of their home or school," according to Porter Dailey, Director of the Technology Center.

A total of 40 teachers, principals and administrators were trained at the Technology Center over the course of three months, beginning in January. In turn, these trainers then recruited and trained other math and science teachers from their schools. A total of 24 regional schools from 11 counties were represented.

Faculty, staff, and the University of Kentucky Department of Math conducted the workshops and facilitated the training of the participants.

Web conferencing will eventually replace the traditional interactive video conferencing as a more effective way of delivering programs of instruction, according to Dailey. "Furthermore," he said, "the technology allows for small group discussions and participation avoiding travel expenses and time away from the classroom for today's classroom teacher."

A total of 20 Morgan County High School personnel participated in the program.

Vets celebration in August will be state's largest ever

The largest celebration of all Kentucky veterans ever held in this state is scheduled to occur at Battlefield Civil War Park, just five miles south of Richmond in Madison County. It will be held Thursday, 3 August, through Sunday, 6 August. There is no admission charge for attendance on all four days; however, there will be a parking fee. No limit to the number of people in one vehicle.

This celebration is being put together in honor of all veterans of Kentucky, no matter which service you served in or which war you may have fought in. All who served, including those currently serving, will be honored.

On the military side of the celebration, Governor Ernie Fletcher will be at the opening ceremony to welcome everyone. Former Miss America Heather French will sing and speak on behalf of all Disabled Veterans. One of Kentucky's own Tuskegee Airmen will be honored by the governor.

The award winning Pulaski County Junior ROTC high school students will provide a color guard and drill team presentation. Six of the living Medal of Honor recipients, including Ernie West from Kentucky, will be present and will be honored. Wayne O. Smith, a former Vietnam POW from Madison County, will be present to relate his five year experience in Hanoi with Sen. John McCain. A Vietnam Memorial Service will be held with the reading of all 1,050 names of those Kentuckians killed in Vietnam.

The traveling Vietnam Wall will be on display with it's own traveling museum. There will be sky diving by the Army's 82nd Airborne Division. And an air show will be presented by the Trojan Horsemen T-28 Warbirds and there will be flyovers by the Air Force's B-52 bomber and the Navy's T-45 trainer.

Entertainment will be provided by the popular country group Confederate Railroad on Friday night and award winning country artist Aaron Tippin will perform on Saturday night. In addition, Janie Fricke a member of the Grand Ole Opry will perform on Saturday afternoon. Lots of local groups and singers from around the central Kentucky area will also entertain during Thursday, Friday and Saturdays schedule of activities.

Also featured will be static displays of Army vehicles and helicopters along with the renown "Standing Proud Truck." This truck has been seen on the world wide web and is being updated daily with the names of those who have been killed in the current Iraqi war. This is a great tribute to all those brave men and women who have given the supreme sacrifice.

In order to make this celebration free the committee is working hard across the state to find companies/corporations and city/county governments willing to provide what they can afford. Planners welcome any company or government office to join in the sponsorship of this event. Individual contributions are also welcome. Each donation is tax exempt and you will receive a statement of such from the sponsoring agency for the celebration, VFW Post 7098 of Richmond, Ky.

For information about how to donate and to see what all will be happening in August, visit www.kentuckyveteranswelcomhome.com or call Emerson McAfee at 859-986-4362 or email at emcafee@alltel.net

Guidebook takes guesswork out of tree identification

With hundreds of different species of trees growing in Kentucky and throughout the Eastern and Central regions of the United States, the average person might be hard-pressed to recognize and name more than just a handful.

"What Tree Is That," a unique 72-page pocket guide available from the National Arbor Day Foundation, makes this detective work fun and easy by showing how to identify trees in a simple step-by-step process.

The guide book begins by noting the distinguishing characteristics that separate one tree species from another. Dozens of richly detailed drawings accurately illustrate the specific shapes and textures of different leaves, needles, acorns, berries, seed pods, cones, and other identifying features.

Popular trees such as oaks, maples, firs, and pines are covered. The pocket guide also goes beyond these familiar species to include the lesser-known horsechestnut and mockernut hickory, sassafras and shadbush, persimmon and pawpaw and pagodatree and pecan.

"Helping people enjoy and appreciate trees is central to the educational mission of the Arbor Day Foundation," said John Rosenow, the Foundation's president. "Being able to identify trees is important to knowing how to care for them and how to plant the right tree in the right place."

To obtain your tree ID guide, send your name and address and $3.00 for each guide to "What Tree Is That?," The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410. Or go online to arborday.org to order.

Three Big Myths About The SSI Program

By Bernard O'Nan

Sometimes people are surprised to find that things they have thought for years were true are actually false. Over the years, I have found that this is often the case with the Supplemental Security Income program, or SSI. The following are what I consider the big three myths about the SSI program — together with the actual truths about those myths.

Myth: You have to be virtually homeless and destitute to qualify for SSI — You have to be aged, blind or disabled to qualify for SSI — and you also must have little or no income or resources. But you certainly do not have to be homeless or destitute because not everything you earn is counted as income and not everything you own is counted as a resource.

For example, income includes money received from wages and pensions, and also such things as food and shelter. The amount of income you can receive each month and still be eligible for SSI depends partly on where you live. You can call us at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778) to find out the income limits in your state.

As to resources, you can own a home and car and burial plot and still get benefits. However, other resources, such as real estate, bank accounts, cash, stocks and bonds, cannot be worth more than $2,000 if you are unmarried, or $3,000 if you are married.

Myth: You can get Social Security benefits or SSI benefits, but you cannot get both — Actually, some people can get both. As of April 2006, just over 2.5 million people were receiving both Social Security and SSI benefit payments. We count your monthly Social Security benefits as income when we determine your eligible for SSI, but you can still qualify for SSI as long as you meet the overall income and resource limits.

For example, suppose Joan Jones receives a monthly Social Security benefit of $300 and has no other income. The SSI federal benefit rate is $603, and the first $20 of income is not counted. So Ms. Jones would be entitled to an SSI benefit of $323 per month in addition to her Social Security.

Myth: If you get SSI disability benefit payments, your SSI payments will stop if you try to go back to work — If you are getting SSI disability payments and want to work, special rules may help you. You may be able to keep getting SSI payments while you work. As you earn more money, your SSI payments may be reduced or stopped, but you may be able to keep your Medicaid coverage. You also may be able to set the amount of your SSI. Blind or disabled people who apply for SSI may get free special services to help them work. These services may include counseling, job training and help in finding work.

You can get more information by visiting our website at www.socialsecurity.gov or calling us toll-free at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778) to get a copy of Working While Disabled — How We Can Help. You may also ask for the pamphlet Supplemental Security Income.

You Can Always Tell When Thursday Comes

Community newspapers couldn't exist were it not for the solid, concerned citizens who attach more importance to staying informed about what's going on in their communities than they do to reading about the latest Hollywood celebrity drug bust or Nashville scandal.

They're from all walks of life. They're professional and business people, wage earners and retirees, the solid, thrifty, taxpaying, concerned and caring folks who comprise the backbone of our community.

They're the ones who want to stay abreast of what's going on at city hall, what decisions are being made by the fiscal court, and what projects or changes political leaders and state and federal agencies may have in mind for this county.

They're the people who understand the value of the money they earn, who spend their's wisely, and who subscribe to the principle that if something is worth producing, it's worth selling, and that if it's worth having it's worth paying for.

We know there are over 3,000 such families in Morgan County. They're the people who buy The Licking Valley Courier every week, who purchase a subscription and have it mailed to their homes or buy a copy at a local news stand and take it home for their families to read.

The management and staff at The Licking Valley Courier devote long hours every week striving to produce a quality community newspaper and take pride in the fact that The Courier is the publication Morgan Countians reach for first each week because they know they can rely on it for fair, honest, impartial coverage of news about Morgan County.

Every edition of The Courier carries more local news . . . news about Morgan County's people, institutions, and local happenings . . . on just the top one-quarter of just one of its pages than is carried throughout entire editions of daily newspapers and other publications that are mailed into Morgan County.

The Courier . . . dedicated to promoting the people and the institutions of Morgan County . . . not the interests of people and businesses in other towns and counties . . . and at the same time not afraid to print the news the way it happens!

That's why Morgan Countians everywhere read The Courier. That's why Morgan County businesses know it Pays to Advertise in The Courier!

Reasonable Patriotism

By Dr. James R. Harrigan

G. K. Chesterton, an Englishman, remarked in 1922 that "America is the only nation in the world that is founded on a creed." That creed was given 230 years ago by Thomas Jefferson, who wrote in the Declaration of Independence, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal" and "that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." As Lincoln said one afternoon in Gettysburg, America was, and continues to be, the only country dedicated to a proposition. It is, in the truest sense of the word, exceptional.

As such, it is difficult to compare America to other nations ... nations which are largely defined by ethnic and geographic ties. A recent study conducted by the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago points to this difficulty. The study attempted to measure the relative patriotism of 34 nations. Of those 34 America was, perhaps not surprisingly, the most patriotic. Making matters less clear, Venezuela was a very close second.

But what is patriotism? According to the study, patriotism can be measured as the sum total of positive citizen sentiment regarding a short list of social factors: political influence, social security, economic success, science and technology, sports, arts and literature, the military, history, fair treatment of all groups in society, and how democracies function. While this list can yield all sorts of interesting cross-national observations, it cannot measure American patriotism, because American patriotism is, in the end, the love of an idea. It is acceptance of the proposition. Patriotism virtually everywhere else is nothing more than love of a place. And be that love the result of a fine literary tradition or a first-class soccer program, it differs in kind from the patriotism of an American as he reads the Declaration of Independence. Jefferson might have referred to this as self-evident.

Jefferson might also have referred to American patriotism as reasonable patriotism. After all, the proposition, our proposition, would have to be true in order to serve simultaneously as our founding principle and our defining characteristic. And could we reasonably doubt the truth of Jefferson's profession of human equality?

Jefferson held that we are all equal in the one way that mattered in terms of governance: we are all equally human. Our equal rights flow from this basic human equality, and accordingly no one can rule over another without that man's consent. With one sweep of his pen Jefferson dismissed kings, princes, and despots, and the political trajectory of the world was changed forever. And it was clearly changed for the better. Government from that point forward was a matter of right, not power. The world was imperfect in 1776, just as it is imperfect now, but from that day to this every form of inequality has been met with a Jeffersonian argument. And that argument has been extraordinarily effective over the last 230 years. From independence in the 18th century to abolition in the 19th century to women's rights in the 20th century, the Declaration of Independence paved the way to a more perfect union ... a more just America.

The rest of the world simply understands these concerns in a very different manner. In response to the National Opinion Research Center's study, Eric Wingerter, a spokesman for the Venezuelan government, said that many in Venezuela believe that President Hugo Chavez is fostering a new sense of national pride. "There's been a real emphasis on rediscovering what it means to be Venezuelan," he said. But what does it mean to be Venezuelan? There is no clear answer to the question apart from some reference to the geography of South America and a shared history beginning with the fall of Gran Columbia in 1830.

What, on the other hand, does it mean to be an American? This is a question that can be answered, and the answer goes well beyond geography. To be an American is to accept the creed. It is to accept that some truths are self-evident, and these truths are the bedrock upon which all legitimate government rests. The American creed is thus the first principle of justice itself. Patriotism in America, then, is not the sum total of happy feelings that the American people have about a certain place. It has nothing to do with sports, literature, or social security. Patriotism in America is the reasonable faith the people have in the truth of their founding proposition. It is a truth that remains self-evident, and America remains the land of reasonable patriots.

Morgan Co. 9-10-year-olds win regional championship

After upsetting Paintsville in the semifinals of the District 7 Little League Regional Tournament, Morgan County's 9-10-year-old All-Stars hammered Whitesburg, 20-5 to claim the 9-10-year-old-division championship Sunday, July 9 at Paintsville.

Morgan County scored 20 runs off just eight hits. Michael Williams and Zach Bartley each had a pair of hits; Braxton Patterson, Taylor Havens, Hunter Adams, and Jarred Burton each had a hit. On the mound, Taylor Havens struck out eight batters in the win.

Both teams advanced to the state tournament which began Saturday in Paintsville.

The Morgan team gained the regional finals berth by beating Whitesburg, 20-5, in a late-inning rally by favoring Paintsville, to win, 5-3, in the win.

Words Of Wisdom

Talented Frosh

Michael Porter, Derrick Jasper, Jodie Meeks, Perry Stevenson. You may not recognize these names now, but they should become very familiar over the next few months. They are Kentucky's four incoming freshmen for the 2006-07 basketball season. The newcomers will join UK's seven returning players to form Tubby Smith's 11-man roster.

Michael Porter is a 6'2" guard from Modesto Christian Academy in California. He was lured to UK in part by a close family friend, former Wildcat forward Chuck Hayes. Derrick Jasper is a 6'6" point guard from Paso Robles, California. Jodie Meeks, who hails from Norcross, Georgia, is yet another big guard at 6'5". Perry Stevenson provides the Wildcats with a much needed power forward, considering U has only two others on its roster. The Louisiana native stands an impressive 6'9", but tips the scales at only 180 pounds.

The freshmen will be counted on heavily. Tubby Smith lost seven players from last season, including three that opted to transfer. However, veterans like Ramel Bradley, Joe Crawford, Bobby Perry and Randolph Morris certainly prove the cupboard is not bare. Add to that list seven footers Jared Carter and Lukasz Orbzut, as well as forward Sherry Thomas, and the Cats find themselves with at least a decent shot of making a run in the tough Southeastern Conference.

Smith says all of his freshmen are capable of helping immediately, especially the guards. The coach describes Meeks and Jasper as "guys that can step in and give us a lot of help in the backcourt." Smith is also high on the "physicality and athleticism" of the defensive-minded Jodie Meeks. But Tubby knows his team's fortunes will likely hinge on the play of Bradley and Crawford.

"(The leadership) will fall on Ramel and Joe's shoulders," said Smith. "They're ready because they are juniors and understand what needs to be done."

Kentucky will certainly face an uphill climb in the SEC east. Florida will not only be the pre-season number one pick in the conference, but also the nation. The Gators return all five starters, including Final Four MVP Joakim Noah. Although Billy Donovan's team did lose six games in the SEC, they were literally untouchable in the post-season. Florida reached that level because of incredible recruiting efforts. Tubby is hoping this freshman class will help produce the same end result.

Morgan 13-14-year-olds win regional crown

For the first time ever, the Morgan County 13-14-year-old Little League All-Stars won the District 7 Regional Championship in their age division in the tournament, played this year at the Donnie McKenzie Field in West Liberty. After battling their way to the title game, the Morgan youngsters finished off Knott County in the bottom of the seventh inning for a 5-4 victory and the championship and a berth in the state finals starting July 21 in Harrodsburg. Team members are, front from left, Ryan Easterling, Mitchell Harvey, Billy Conley, Blake DeHaven, Patrick Montgomery; back from left, Asst. Coach Renny Fraley, Hunter Fraley, Dylan Moore, Cory Lykins, Mikie Fyffe, Kevin Vance, Jesse Cox, and Coach Richard D. DeHaven. The team wishes to congratulate the 9-10-year-old and the 15-16-year-old Morgan Little League All-Stars, who also won their first-ever District 7 Regional championships this year. The team also wants to thank all the people of Morgan County who came to their car wash, and thanks for all the donations to help them on their quest for a state title in Harrodsburg.

Cougar offense taking shape as Fannin's return nears

Cougar QB should be cleared to throw in about two weeks

By David Patrick

We're now only one month away from the start of the 2006 high school football season. For Morgan County Coach Randy Wood, things are progressing about as well as he could have hoped. Numbers are increasing for summer drills while the all-important offensive line continues to impress. But probably the best news of the summer is the steady improvement of quarterback Andy Fannin, who continues the long road back after undergoing shoulder surgery back in March.

"We're doing our best to take care of that shoulder," said Wood. "He's still under doctor's orders not to throw and probably won't be cleared to throw until the first week of August. But he's still at practice every day running through the offense—doing everything he can to be prepared."

Doctors say once Fannin is cleared to throw, he will regain his strength quickly. Wood says it's been difficult on his quarterback to be a patient, especially considering he's so close to getting the go-ahead.

"It's tough to show up at practice and not be able to do what you do best," said Wood. "But Andy is really excited about the thoughts of getting to throw again."

The offensive line is doing its part in preparation for Fannin's return. Ryan Buckler will anchor the unit from the center position, while Charles Gilbert returns with plenty of experience at right guard. Wood expects Clay Adkins to rotate between guard and tackle, while also getting some snaps at center. Michael Paul Fugate, Matt Frisby and Joey

Fletcher, as well as freshman Nathan Cantrell, are expected to play prominent roles as well.

"We've got seven or eight guys on the line that I feel can help us," said Wood. "They've all worked hard at different spots. The next thing is to find where they fit in best."

Wood says he's been very impressed with performances with running back Brandon Ward and wide receiver Wes Montgomery, along with first-year player, senior split end Zach Burton. The Cougars are now just a couple weeks away from their first competition—an August 4 exhibition game against South Floyd.

"We're just trying to do a lot of teaching right now and get everyone up to speed," said Wood. "Not having Fannin has put us a little behind schedule, but that's something that can't be helped. We'll work hard and do our best to be ready to go."

Trooper Ralph Lockard and Morgan County U.N. I.T.E. Chair, at steps, welcome first group of Safe Night participants to the KSP Mobile Substance Abuse Information Center.

Safe Night participants took a break from swimming at the West Liberty Public Pool to visit the van. These youngsters discuss the dangers of methamphetamine in front of a replica of a meth lab.

Morgan County Safe Night provides first venue for the KSP's new Mobile Substance Abuse Information Center

For the past several years, Morgan County 4-H and Morgan County Community Education have coordinated "Safe Night", a youth program with the theme "No Weapons, No Drugs or Alcohol, No Arguments." Safe Night's purpose is to provide an evening of fun activities for youth to allow them to witness and participate in a fun atmosphere that is drug free.

Morgan County Kentucky Agency for Substance Abuse Policy (KY-ASAP) provided funding this year to make available to youth attending the event a unique educational exhibit designed to teach the dangers of drug, alcohol and tobacco abuse.

The exhibit, the Kentucky State Police's brand new mobile substance abuse van, designed to help educate the public about the devastating effects of drug abuse, was a feature attraction at this year's Safe Night.

The 40 foot trailer features a mock methamphetamine lab and growing marijuana, a video presentation vividly describing the debilitating results of illegal drug use, and before and after photos and descriptions of

Key to the city

Mayor Bob Nickell, left, welcomed the Dillard's (Rodney and Doug) to West Liberty during one of the duo's performances at the Old Mill Bluegrass Festival held July 8 and 9 at Old Mill Park. The Dillard's were among the headline performers at this year's event, which observers estimate drew over 3,000 bluegrass and gospel fans. The event was described by many as one of the best in the festival's 11-year history with consistently fine music by all performers. The event, sponsored annually by Commercial Bank and the West Liberty Tourism Commission with the help of several local businesses, each year prompts a spike in business at local eateries and gas stations.

Junction News

By Kathy Bolin

July 17 - Greetings from the Junction,

Thursday was my son Aaron's final commitment for the summer with Upward Bound. Aaron and several students caught a coach bus on Monday and headed to Atlanta, Ga., for four days of sight seeing. They toured the World of Coke Plant, Stone Mountain and CNN, and dined at Hard Rock Cafe and a dinner theater. He is glad to be home, and yes, I missed him.

Ivy Leeper, of Williams Creek, has had sister, Sadie, visiting with her the past couple of weeks. Sadie live in Pennsylvania, and will be returning home this upcoming week. It was nice to see you again, Sadie, and I know that Ivy and John enjoyed your company.

Last week's article I reported on the surprise birthday celebration in honor of Ms. Molly Francis's 80th birthday. I understand there was some confusion regarding the identity of Mary, the special friend. So, in clarification, Mary is Mary Brown, who has been Molly's dear friend and sister in the Lord for many years.

Ethel Scherer, sister of Henry Bailey, was at St. Joseph Hospital and had a pacemaker inserted on Thursday. She is staying with her sister, Edna, in Nicholasville, and will return to Morgan County to stay with Henry and Chassie until she is able to care for herself.

Also hospitalized was Diane Cantrell, daughter of Ethel Bolin. Diane had to have her arm operated on. Get well wishes to them all.

Well, time to close; keep cool.

A crowd gathered beneath the trees to listen to the music and relax in the shade.

Two young bluegrass fans clogged to the music of the Dillard's, who played Saturday afternoon.

These fans came prepared for the day and staked out a spot in the shade to watch the shows.

On Waves of Faith

How strong and how steady are the waves of the sea! When we look at the ocean we can glimpse the nature of God's mighty power and love. It is predictable. It is dependable. The waves will crash upon the shore with the rhythm that has continued from the time the seas were created, this we do not question.

Perhaps the question we must consider is one concerning our faith in God and in His Word. Is it as steady and as strong as the waves of the ocean? Does our faith in God shape our consciousness as the waves shape the line of the shore? In Isaiah 48:18, God proclaimed, "...your peace would have been like a river, and your righteousness like the waves of the sea."

Worship each week in God's House, and learn such trust in Him that your faith will flow with the strength and constancy of the waves of the sea.

A Guide to Accurate Testing

There is probably only one thing worse than having to draw your own blood to test your blood sugar—and that is repeating the test because of an error. Below are some useful tips to ensure an accurate reading the first time.

- Wash hands with warm, soapy water and rinse and dry thoroughly before testing. Even minute amounts of food or soap residue can affect results.
- Clean your meter. You should clean it often and follow the manufacturer's instructions.
- Make sure you use the correct amount of blood. If the blood sample is not adequate, your meter may not read the glucose level accurately.
- Always use a new, fresh lancet.
- Check the test strip packaging to ensure that your test strips will work with your meter. Most meters require you to match the code on your meter with the code on your strip container.
- Periodically, check the date on your strips for freshness. Do not use test strips after their expiration date.
- Store your test strips properly so they do not deteriorate. Protect them from light, heat and humidity. Also, do not use test strips from a cracked or damaged container.
- To ensure that your meter is working properly, test it regularly with control solution, and keep extra batteries on hand.
- Take your meter with you on visits to your doctor and pharmacy. Compare your at-home results with the laboratory results.
- If you use a meter that enables alternate-site testing (the forearm or base of thumb, for example), be aware that readings from these sites may not be as accurate as results from fingertips. Plus, alternate-site test results can vary from fingertip results when glucose levels change quickly—such as after eating, taking insulin, during exercise or when you are sick or stressed. If you think your blood sugar is low or the way you feel does not coincide with the results from an alternate site, use a blood sample from your fingertip.

THE THINGS YOU CANNOT BUY

The best and sweetest things in life are things you cannot buy. The music of the birds at dawn. The rainbow in the sky. The dazzling magic of the stars, the miracle of light, the precious gifts of health and strength of hearing, speech and sight. The peace of mind that crowds busy life of work well done. A faith in God that deepens as you face the setting sun. The boon of love, the joy of friendship as the years go by. You find the greatest blessings are things you cannot buy. IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory Of Robert Pendleton Aug. 3, 1965 • Sept. 22, 1994 Since Then

They say that since its been a while I should be over you. That time, since then, should have replaced all but a thought or two. They say, since then, I should be strong and leave the past behind. To stop or think about that time would bring no peace of mind. They say, since then, all memory fails to show us how to cope. But somehow by the grace of GOD there's meaning found in hope. I'm told it's not the way you die nor how long your suffering lasts. But how your life on earth is spent before the final straw is cast. Since then my life's had ups and downs. And all were found in you. To give me strength, to give me hope dear GOD, please see me through. It comes down to the knowledge that my loss is Heaven's gain. And still a part of all you were locked in my heart, remains. Nothing compares in knowing that my child is finally free. Up there with JESUS in the sky preparing room for me. It's been a while, I know. But time does nothing for the sorrow. Just covers up the hurt inside and carries grief into tomorrow. To know that soon the day will come though I won't know how or when. I'll hold on to your memory like I've always done since then. --Chrissy Oldham

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory Of Deloris Smith Oct. 2, 1927 • July 21, 2005

Dear Graggy,
You taught me the important things in life:
How to scrub the baseboards,
How to balance a checkbook,
How to bake your mouthwatering sugar cookies,
And most importantly how to survive.
I really appreciate all the wonderful things you did for me. You are truly my inspiration.

I will always remember
The freezing temperatures in the house,
The closet I slept in for the past ten years of my life,
The ugly marigolds I watered, Jeopardy and Cash Explosion (which I hated),
And of course the many hours spent outside counting airplanes.
You are truly my inspiration.

Later I saw the look of pain replace joy and happiness
You fought a battle, but The pain was just too excruciating,
You endured so much. You are truly my inspiration.

I will forever hold close the memory of
The very minute you slipped into eternity,
Standing around your bed long after you were gone
And the love you shared for me.
You were and will always be my inspiration.
I love and miss you,
Your Baby Girl

New state laws now in effect in Kentucky

Kentucky legislators introduced a total of 1,012 bills in the 2006 General Assembly. Of 223 that were passed, the following were among those that became law last week:

- Senate Bill 65, which gives advanced registered nurse practitioners authority to write prescriptions for controlled substances with the approval of their supervising doctor. The legislation expands on their current ability to write certain prescriptions, including antibiotics.
- House Bill 3, which expands the range of areas where convicted sex offenders cannot live. Now prohibited are areas within 1,000 feet of any school, daycare center, or playground. Registered sex offenders will also be required to have a new photo taken every two years, out-of-state sex offenders will have five days to register in Kentucky after moving into the state, and the length of registration for some offenders is lengthened from 10 to 20 years. School employees, volunteers, and contractors will be required to submit to both state and national criminal background checks. Juveniles convicted of Class A, B, and C felonies will have those records opened to the public.
- SB 38, which eliminates the "duty to retreat" if a person believes he or she is being threatened. Instead, the law spells out a right to use deadly force against an intruder in a person's home or vehicle.
- HB 290, which blocks the identity of concealed-carry permit holders from the public record, and only law enforcement officers will be able to check the records of deadly weapons training classes. In addition, lawfully owned weapons and ammunition cannot be seized by authorities during disasters or emergencies.
- HB 117, which stipulates that anyone 16 or under riding an ATV must wear a helmet at all times, even if on private land.
- HB 117 also raises seat belt violations from a secondary to a primary offense, allowing law enforcement officials to pull over a driver and issue a $25 fine for not wearing a seat belt. Until January 1, 2007, however, law enforcement officers will be issuing courtesy warnings rather than tickets. Previously, officers could only give tickets for seat belt violations if drivers were stopped for another offense.

- HB 508, which lays down specific conditions before the state may condemn private property under the state's eminent domain laws. The bill, a response to the U.S. Supreme Court's Kelo case, prohibits the condemnation of private property unless it will be used for an exclusive public use such as government purposes, public utilities or to eliminate blighted areas.
- Wine consumption: Restaurant patrons will be able to take a partially-consumed bottle of wine under SB 56. The restaurant will be required to reseal the bottle, place it in a container, and provide a dated receipt. Patrons will be limited to a single bottle.
- HB 193, which will require state inmates to exhaust all administrative remedies before filing a lawsuit.
- SB 49, which requires most gift cards to have a minimum expiration date of one year after being issued, and prevents fees that reduce its value from being imposed until the expiration date passes.
- HB 54, which allows consumers to request a security freeze on their credit report, requiring the credit agency to get express authorization from the consumer before releasing the report to third parties.
- HB 395, which allows circuit court clerks to accept credit and debit cards as well as charge a $25 bad check fee.
- SB 106, which prevents breastfeeding mothers from being charged with indecency. The law explicitly permits mothers to breastfeed their babies in public and prevents anyone from interfering with a mother breastfeeding in public.
- HB 135, which gives the governor expanded powers to reschedule elections in case of a disaster or emergency, allows the governor to delay an election up to five weeks in such cases, and requires the State Board of Elections to pay $255 per precinct to affected counties that are forced to reschedule their elections.
- SB 51, which prohibits a loss of income or benefits, including leave time, to teachers or other school employees who are assaulted on the job. School districts would be required to maintain their income and benefits up to one year after the injury.
- HB 632, which prohibits the Department of Parks from charging boat launching fees at boat ramps under its authority and authorizes prorated refunds for ramp passes already issued.
- HB 289, which prohibits computer-assisted remote-control hunting and makes sure that disabled hunters are not unduly affected. The law is aimed at Internet companies that provide "click-and-shoot" hunting.
- SB 141, which allows state employees to be fired if they provide advance notice of an upcoming inspection of a long-term care facility. The law's goal is to preserve the "surprise" and integrity of the inspections.
- HB 151, which requires indoor tanning salons to get written parental permission for any tanner between the ages of 14 and 18. Anyone tanning under the age of 14 must be accompanied by their parent or legal guardian. Tanning salons will also be required to provide certain health and safety information to their

Ghost of Winding Stair Two more minutes

The baby was cryin'—for over half hour it had been cryin'. It was drivin' me to distraction.

It started when I got home from a funeral. Before I got home, there were about 20 people in the house, waitin on me to go to the pond. But apparently they couldn't wait any longer, so they left without me. I had just missed them.

My wife and daughter and daughter-in-law were there waitin' on me to come so they could go to Morehead shoppin'. They handed me the two-year-old and said, "He's yours 'till we get back."

"But I'm goin' to the pond," I protested. My daughter said, "You can't leave him (the baby) out in the sun more than 15 minutes at a time, so you can't take him to the pond."

"But they're waitin' on me," I protested. My wife kissed me on the cheek and smiled and said, "We'll be back in about three hours. Don't let the baby get a sunburn." She gave me another sweet smile, and off they went.

It wasn't five minutes 'til the baby started cryin' and I was carryin' him and singin' to him and he was still cryin'. I got to thinkin' and then it hit me. I men literally. My phermones took a dive and that smell told me we was in trouble.

So there I was with that baby, havin' to take him to the bathroom. This wasn't for me. As I cleaned him up, I had a bright idea. I gave him some juice to drink and he was all right for about a half hour. Then I took him out on the porch and set about teachin' him some valuable lessons he'll need to know when he grows up.

When we went back in, he started cryin' again. He kept sayin' "Ride, Pappaw's backhoe." I finally took him outside and rode him around for 15 minutes on the backhoe. That stopped the cryin'.

Fifteen minutes after I took him back in, he was cryin' again, wantin' to "ride Pappaw's backhoe." So I took him another 15 minute ride.

Well, that was 30 minutes in the hot sun and I knew the backhoe rides were over. No sooner than we came back in, he was cryin' again. I bet he'd cried for half hour when in walked his dad. He'd come back from the pond to get some ice.

I told him my dilemma. "That's no problem," he said. "Watch this." He looked at me and winked and said, "Wanna ride Pappaw's backhoe?" Well, my grandson was a cryin' really hard when my son-in-law said, "Two more minutes."

My grandson stopped cryin'. His eyes lit up and he smiled and said, "Two more minutes!"

So everytime my grandson started cryin' and say, "Wanna ride Pappaw's backhoe," I'd say, "Two more minutes."

Imagine that. One little phrase—"two more minutes"—could induce discipline and patience into a 2-year-old, while all the time giving him that glimmer of hope, however small.

When the womenfolk came home, I had a camera waitin'. Proud as any grandpa could be, I said, "Come out on the porch, we wanna show you somethin'."

They all walked to the porch and I watched as Peggy took the camera with great expectation. On cue, my grandson took hold of my hand and we proudly walked over to the edge of the porch. Casually, he pulled down his pants, gazed up at the sky and gave Peggy's flowers a good waterin'.

"That's it!" Peggy said as she huffed back into the house. "It's the last time I'll ever leave him with you." I keep tellin' myself that was a smile on her face she was tryin' to hide as she closed the door. But I ain't real shore.

Her head appeared back out the door. "Here, take out the garbage," she said.

I had another bright idea. If it works for a 2-year old . . . I thought with a glimmer of hope. As I walked in the door, I said, "Two more minutes."

Whap! Have you ever had a full bag of garbage slammed into your gut?!

So much for discipline and patience and my glimmer of hope.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Love is the form, mover and root of the virtues.

Special session cuts taxes for small businesses

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 21—With the Senate's passage of House Bill One, legislation that will cut taxes for Kentucky small businesses and increase the chances of luring a near-zero emissions power plant to the state is about to become law.

Rep. Carolyn Belcher (D-Owingsville), the General Assembly's only certified public accountant, sponsored the portion of HB 1 dealing with small business tax relief. She was also the sponsor of legislation during the regular session designed to ease the burden of the Alternative Minimum Calculation (AMC), which resulted after the legislature addressed the matter but failed to take action on failed to act on when it passed the Fletcher Administration's tax modernization plan of 2005. As a result, many small businesses paid taxes even though they made no profit.

Since the beginning of the regular 2006 session, House Democrats insisted on legislation that would give as many small businesses as much AMC relief as possible. Two weeks ago, Senate Republican leadership accepted a $3 million exemption for the AMC proposed by the House, which cleared the way for a special session.

HB 1 passed the House 95-0 last Friday and the Senate 36-0 this morning.

"I'm very proud of all my colleagues for making possible the shortest, and perhaps most productive Special Session in history," said House Speaker Jody Richards. "We've shown that hard work and a bipartisan approach can make Kentucky a better place."

The other section of HB 1 is an incentive plan aimed at increasing Kentucky's chances of attracting FutureGen. It was included for consideration in the special session by Gov. Fletcher and features items found in HB 299, sponsored by House Majority Floor Leader Rocky Adkins (D-Sandy Hook), and HB 665, sponsored by Rep. Tanya Pullin (D-South Shore).

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
Michael A. Guido
Metairie, Georgia

A mother asked her son, "Did you enjoy Sunday School?"

"Yes, ma'am," he answered.

"Do you like your teacher?"

"I sure do," he said. "But she must be the grandmother of Jesus."

"What makes you think so?" she asked.

"Because," he answered,

"she's always talking lovingly about Him."

Do you talk so lovingly about our Lord that others think you're a relative of His?

The Bible says, "Go into all the world and preach the Good News to everyone, everywhere."

That's the will of our heavenly Father. And our Lord said, "Whoever does the will of My Father in heaven is My brother and sister and mother."

Margaret Stacy Circle July 11th meeting held

The monthly meeting of the Margaret Stacy Circle was held on Tuesday, July 11, at the United Methodist Church.

Jenni Ison welcomed everyone to the meeting. The minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given. We then discussed old business such as planning for the Christmas bazaar and selling flower bulbs as a fund raiser. Everyone keep these things in mind.

Judy Elam's devotion was from a book called "Heart Songs". She read a very inspiring poem called "Angel Wings". Judy also read quotes and beliefs about freedom from a book by Michael W. Smith entitled "The Price of Freedom". We should all be thankful for the ones who protect our freedom and we should do what we can to keep our country strong.

The program that Judy Elam chose was on the book called "The Gift of the Blessing". It tells about the blessing you receive from your family, especially from your Mom and Dad. Blessings come from touch, word, values, special future, and active participation. There are many ways we can share our blessings with others. A very good program.

We filled out cards for those who are sick or unable to come to the meetings. Our prayers and thoughts are with them.

We also welcomed Jenni Ison as our new president. We know she will do a great job and we will give her our full support.

We also welcomed our new pastor's wife, Jeannie Jett, to our meeting. We are very happy to have her with us.

Those attending this meeting were Jenni Ison, Judy Elam, Jonell Tobin, Georgia Stamper, Barbara Ison, Anita Hunley, Brenda Smith, and Jeannie Jett.

Barbara Ison said the blessing and then we enjoyed refreshments prepared by Judy Elam.

People build a house; love makes it a home

By Lourinda Pelfrey
July 4, 2006—Here is the story of how two people built a house for their family of five children at the time. One more child was added later.

Ova Pelfrey was a hard worker, honest in his way of thinking. After buying the small farm for $1,300, he knew we needed a house, so he decided to cut timber on his dad's farm and saw the lumber that was needed. His brother-in-law, Victor Pelfrey, moved his sawmill in and sawed lumber for Mr. Ambrose Pelfrey (Ova's father), and enough for our house.

Ova and I didn't agree on everything and many mistakes were made. I wanted to get a house plan and carpenters to start a brick with full size basement. He wanted a white house with 1/2 size basement. He won. The men he chose to build the house were John Jake and Jim P. Johnson. They were good barn builders but not understanding the finish work of a family home. Many carpenters were added for different things-- Stanley haney, Clarence hutchinson, Bee Williams, and more.

I wanted to get a small dozer to dig the basement. But Ova thought he could save money and dug the hole with the team of mules and hand scrapper. We had no money, but borrowed a few thousand dollars and that worked for the time being.

After we moved into the 28 feet square, four room, no closets, no bathroom, no kitchen cabinets, he decided it was too small and added another eight feet onto the back and finished two attic rooms with stair case in the living room.

The mistakes are costly but Dad was full of good, strong love for his children and that turned the little white house into a home.

The second faze of our house was built by Frederick and May Lumber Company, a bathroom, kitchen cabinets, and closets, glassed in porch in back and a front porch. The family was blessed to enjoy this home for several years. The house was built in 1953. Ova passed away April 20, 1995.

The last year of Ova's life has some beautiful memories. While reading his Bible one day, he stopped and said, "This is the most beautiful scripture". John Chapter 14--"Let not your heart be troubled, believe in God. I've gone to prepare a place for you." With a smile he said, "I've had a long and blessed life, now I'm ready to go. The place will be perfect, no more mistakes or guess work. So come on over and see me in my new home."

(Note: The Johnson brothers believed in a solid foundation and a strong structure.)

Household Hints

- For a burn place a slice of raw potato on a burn. Change it every three minutes. It provides cooling and a protective layer of starch.

- For a boil use one tablespoon of chopped up soap, 1 tablespoon of milk, and 1/2 piece of baked homemade bread. Mix a paste and bind it over the boil for three days, then the boil will pop out.

For bee stings draw a wet bar of soap across the sting. It will pull the stinger out, or use an ice cube and you can also make a paste of baking soda.

- To remove large dark spots on a rug, put kitty litter or salt on the spot. Let it set one hour and vacuum. It works.

Future use of tobacco settlement funds focus of Ag Policy meetings statewide

By Al Cross

No state has put more of its tobacco-settlement funds into agriculture – half the total – as Kentucky, the state with the most tobacco farmers. And farmers continue to be the focus of officials who hand out the money.

The $206 million invested so far in Kentucky agriculture has helped shake farmers' historic allegiance to tobacco, encouraged diversification and upgraded the state's cattle industry, the largest in the Eastern United States.

The state has put virtually none of the money into research and development of such agriculture-related industries as biotechnology, which has been a major focus of settlement spending in North Carolina, the top tobacco-producing state.

Meanwhile, some Kentucky legislators have voiced concern that the state is spending the settlement money too loosely, and the head of the office that oversees the spending acknowledges that it needs a larger compliance staff.

That is the lay of the land as the Governor's Office of Agricultural Policy holds 13 meetings this summer in all sections of Kentucky to discuss the future of the Agricultural Development Fund – which gets half the money Kentucky receives from the national settlement with cigarette manufacturers.

When the legislature allocated the settlement money in 2000, there was heavy political pressure to put money directly into the pockets of farmers, who were going through a series of cuts in tobacco production quotas.

Former Gov. Brereton Jones proposed that much of the money be put into a trust fund to cover health costs of the state's uninsured, but that idea got nowhere. North Carolina took such a route, investing its settlement money and spending only the earnings.

Like North Carolina, Kentucky set aside half its settlement spending to help its farm economy, but is spending the money as it comes in, about $100 million a year.

A turf battle over who would control the money put most power in the hands of the new Agricultural Development Board, representing agriculture, business and other interests.

However, 35 percent of the money was allocated to counties based on their economic dependency on tobacco, and the spending priorities and immediate oversight at the county level were placed in the hands of local boards representing agricultural interests. The Governor's Office of Agricultural Policy has statewide oversight and acts as staff to the state board.

Keith Rogers, executive director of the office since soon after Gov. Ernie Fletcher was inaugurated in late 2003, said in an interview that state universities might have been interested in getting settlement money for research in agriculture or biotechnology, but kept quiet because they also wanted to see tobacco growers get direct help and didn't want to be seen as competing with them.

But with the end of federal quotas and price supports for tobacco in late 2004, and the resulting departure of many growers from the industry, tobacco appears to have lost much of its clout. It has declined from its historic position as Kentucky's No. 1 agricultural product to fourth. In 2005, the legislature greatly increased the state cigarette tax and the Agricultural Development Board rejected a grant application from tobacco growers, saying that funding tobacco would run contrary to the board's goal of diversification.

Rogers said the state's initial strategy of immediate, direct payments to farmers was not just a tactical, political maneuver, but logical public policy – because it gave farmers an incentive to diversify, improve the quality of their livestock or invest in value-added processing of their products.

"We had to have a change of attitude and mindset in the Kentucky farmer to ever move beyond tobacco," and it has worked, Rogers said. He said that when he started with the state, after working as a congressional aide and farmer, "I was shocked by the change I saw" in farmers' attitudes since the program began. He said the state executive branch will be guided by comments at the regional meetings. This is a unique opportunity for people interested in the future of Kentucky's agricultural economy, and the state's economy as a whole, to speak up about the investment of a huge resource that can make a difference in the quality of life in the Commonwealth.

The West Liberty Volunteer Fire Department purchased this 2002 Ford Explorer in June through the department water fund. It serves as a command vehicle and is available to all active firefighters for department use.

Fire department purchases command vehicle, seeks new volunteer members

By Miranda Cantrell James

The West Liberty Volunteer Fire Department officially unveiled a new command vehicle at Old Mill Park following its monthly meeting on Monday evening.

Assistant Fire Chief Dave Conley said the vehicle, a 2002 Ford Explorer, was purchased in June and striped through the department's water fund, and outfitted with lights through state aid.

"This vehicle is available to all active firefighters," Conley said. "They can drive it to training sessions, conferences and other department-related activities and events."

Conley said the vehicle is also a testament to department perseverance.

"I hope this vehicle will be a morale booster," Conley said. "This department has seen rough times, but we are battling back. We want to be the #1 fire department in the county again, and we hope the public will help us."

The department is currently seeking new members to meet its goal.

"We are always looking for new volunteers," Conley said. "We hope people will see what we do and want to be part of our team."

The department extends special thanks to Mayor Bob Nickell, City Clerk Sally Barker and city council members for their assistance in acquiring the vehicle.

A fishing buddy remembered

Paul Williams of West Liberty displays a plaque he made to mount the first (and only) rod and reel owned by his late fishing buddy, the late Dr. Alec Spencer. The reel is a 1940 Pflueger with braided silk line. It is mounted on a True Temper steel rod, along with Doc Spencer's favorite crank bait, an Injured Minnow. "This is the only lure I ever saw Doc use," Paul said. "If he caught something with it, that was fine, and if he didn't, that was still fine with Doc."

Paul and Doc fished together for many, many years.

Paul, who now devotes much of his time to his wood working hobby, donated this beautifully crafted "art work" to the local Headwaters Bass Club in memory of Dr. Spencer. It will be displayed in the Morgan County Sportsman's Club building for members and friends to see and remember.

A retired teacher and mail carrier, Paul was one of the first Morgan Countians to join the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. He and his friend, Dr. Spencer, were both servants to all who came to them for professional help and advice.

To Paul, for your dedication and devotion to this project, we thank you. Dr. Spencer would have been very proud of such loyalty by an old fishing buddy.

Melinda Blair thanks Kiwanis Club

Dear Editor,

On July 4, the Kiwanis Club presented me with a beautiful engraved plaque for my years of service working at the West Liberty Kiwanis Pool. I certainly was most grateful to receive this gift.

In the 1950s, a group of Kiwanis members looked ahead and had a swimming pool constructed. Last year, money was given to update the pool - new pumps, a new deck beside the pool, a new bath house, a new hot tub and a new pool for "little folks."

Not only do the people of Morgan County use the pool, but also people from Elliott, Wolfe, Magoffin and other surrounding counties come to swim in our pool. There are several reasons why people chose our pool. One reason is the efficient staff. Visitors comment about seeing the staff check the water in the pool, which is very important. Another reason is that we have the large area where swimmers can sit and relax. The Kiwanis pool provides a safe environment for children as well as adults.

I want to share some of the funny things that happened while I was teaching swimming.

One rainy day, I was in McKenzie's Shopwise, where I met the mother of one of my young swimming students. The mother asked her son, "Aren't you going to speak to Mrs. Blair?"

With a puzzled look on his face, the boy replied, "I didn't know Mrs. Blair with clothes on!" I guess he could only remember with a wet bathing suit and wet hair.

Throughout the years, I have had some major "wardrobe malfunctions." One of my adult students was a lady who already knew how to swim. She wanted to learn how to dive from the diving board. During one lesson, she wore a two-piece bathing suit. After one of her dives she did not come up - because she had lost the top of her bathing suit. She stayed down in the water next to the side of the pool while I retrieved the missing piece to her suit. Thank goodness, this was a class just for the ladies!

Kids know just what to say. One little girl, getting ready to jump into the water, kept saying, "Mrs. Blair, don't move." I told her that I would hold my arms out and would catch her. When she finally jumped, she missed my arms but grabbed the top of my bathing suit! Yes, I had a "wardrobe malfunction." I kept wondering what I was going to say to her, but the little girl solved the problem when she said, "You look just like my mom!" I made a bathing suit adjustment, and we went right on with our lesson.

And the adjustments continued. One 6-year-old was doing really well with his swimming lessons - until time to go to the deep water and see how well they could swim. After I explained what they were going to do, the students decided to jump into the water and swim to the ladder. The young lad jumped, but someone had forgotten to tie the inner string of his trunks. As he swam to the surface, his trunks went to the bottom. A mother wrapped a towel around him, readjusted his suit, and... All was well!

Small children can think of all kinds of excuses to not take their lessons. Here are some of the more common comments, always introduced with the words, "Mrs. Blair..."

"Isn't it time to go home? We went down in the deep water yesterday, so we don't want to go again today! I think my mom wants to talk to me!" And, of course, the most common excuse was, "Can I go to the bathroom?" I solved the bathroom problem by always having an adult go with the student and to make sure the child got back into the water. I remember one 5-year-old had a big problem of waiting until the last minute before asking if he could go. Each time he asked, I would turn around to see if he had gone, and I always got the same reply, "It was too late!"

Over the past several years at the Kiwanis pool, we have had lessons in water aerobics, synchronized swimming, and group and private lessons for children and adults. I even worked with adults who took lessons but did not want to learn how to swim. Because they had purchased a fishing boat, they took their lessons in life preservers because they want to know what to do if they fell into the water.

You might not have realized it, but there was magic going on at the pool when children were learning to swim. I would always show them that if they held their breath and just "let go and fell" into the water, they could do some magic as they learned to float. Once students learned this skill, they were off and swimming.

I will never forget the looks on those precious little faces once they learned that water could be so much fun and not to be afraid. I think the reason our swim program were always so successful was because the children felt secure with me and the other teachers. It was so important to have an extended hand so they could see under the water that someone was waiting for them.

I wish to thank two special people who were of such great help to me - Mr. Lynn Nickell and Ms. Jennifer Sheets. These two always helped me when there was a problem with the pool. Yes, I will miss teaching, but I have to remember it was time for me to move on in another direction. Many thanks to all of you.

When you are in West Liberty, please observe all of the following places that the Kiwanis Club has played a major role in developing for our community - our new swimming pool, Old Mill Park and its safe walking trail, the new Walsh Park, picnic shelters with grills, the beautiful waterfall and flower gardens, and the children's enclosed area for play. Remember these are only a few places the Kiwanis Club maintains. I ask you to support the club because the money they receive goes to benefit our beautiful community.

OxyContin not root cause of E.Ky. crime as suggested

OxyContin is not the base cause of much of Eastern Kentucky's crime as has been suggested, according to a professor of police studies at Eastern Kentucky University.

In a recent report, Kenneth D. Tunnell says that the "OxyContin epidemic's relationship to crime in Kentucky evidently is a socially constructed one with little empirical support. Likewise, increased OxyContin use is not affecting drug arrest rates..."

The report titled "OxyContin and Crime in Eastern Kentucky" is the most recent published as a Kentucky Justice & Safety Research Bulletin.

Tunnell bases his conclusion on property crime rates, violent crime rates and drug arrests in Eastern Kentucky as reported in the Kentucky State Police's Crime in Kentucky from 1990 through 2004.

OxyContin was first marketed in 1996.

The reports show that property crime rates have fluctuated in Eastern Kentucky's four development districts. Tunnell surmises that the prevalence and abuse of OxyContin in Eastern Kentucky could be attributed to several causes.

He points out that Kentucky leads the nation in prescription drug use. Further, that prescription drug use is culturally entrenched in Eastern Kentucky.

Another reason, he says, is that Purdue Pharma, the manufacturer of OxyContin, has aggressively marketed the drug.

Sales of OxyContin totaled $2 billion over the first five years the drug was manufactured, he said. The company had projected sales of $350 million for that period.

Tunnell says the company was planning on having its sales force devote 40% of its time to marketing OxyContin after those five years, but instead spent 80% of its time on the drug.

"Marketing strategies specifically targeted medical doctors known for prescribing large numbers of painkillers," Tunnell said.

He also says that the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) contributed to the spread of OxyContin.

The DEA has two responsibilities. One is to enforce the federal drug laws, and the other is to determine the manufacturing quotas for legal prescription drugs.

Tunnell quotes two sources when he says, "The agency recently authorized sharp increases in production of specific addictive analgesics. The 2003 quota for hydrocodone (the base of OxyContin), for example, was 14 percent higher than 2002 and 75 percent higher than a decade ago. Oxycodone production, authorized by the DEA, has increased 1,200 percent 1993."

He also says that the medical community now recognizes pain as a vital sign, such as blood pressure.

Also Congress in 2000 declared the first years of the 21st Century as the "Decade of Pain Control and Research."

All of these factors, along with misinterpretation of data by some of the media have contributed to the belief that OxyContin was the root cause of crime in Eastern Kentucky.

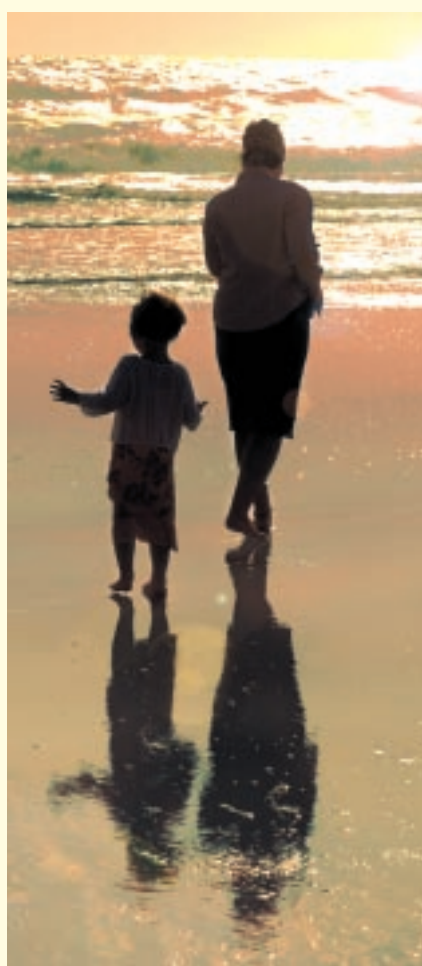

The data, he says, don't back up the claim.

Standafer completes community service for Rogers Scholars

Bennett Standafer, of Morgan County, completed the community service requirement of the Rogers Scholars program by participating in a lake clean-up activity benefiting the Friends of Lake Cumberland and PRIDE (Personal Responsibility in a Desirable Environment) organizations.

Rogers Scholars is an intensive one-week youth leadership program administered and hosted by the Center for Rural Development, located in Somerset, Ky. A select group of 60 students representing "the best and brightest" from a 42-county region of Southern and Eastern Kentucky earn invitations to the center for the prestigious annual program.

"When God's Food Pantry started, many people in the community did not believe we could service many families," God's Food Pantry Executive Director Debbie Long said. "However, with the help of volunteers, we have been servicing an average of 558 families per month."

God's Food Pantry helps to feed the needy in Pulaski County and has been doing so since 1981. In order for families to receive food, they must provide detailed information about their particular situation and need. Based upon those individual evaluations, Pantry staff will determine how much to supply each family with.

"Each scholar will apply what he or she has learned about community service by giving back to their home communities through future projects," Rogers Scholars Coordinator Jessica Melton said.

For more information on God's Food Pantry, call 606-679-8560 or make a tax-free donation by mail to God's Food Pantry, 52 Public Square, Somerset, KY 42502.

Inspiration For Daily Living

By Will Cooper

When Harry S. Truman was thrust into the presidency at the death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, a man named Sam Rayburn gave him some helpful advice. "From here on out you're going to have lots of people around you," he said. "They'll try and put a wall around you and cut you off from any ideas but theirs. They'll tell you what a great man you are, Harry," and he continued, "but you and I both know you ain't."

In our daily lives, we would be wise to remember who we are, and how far we have come in life. However, I believe it is almost as important for us to keep a firm grasp on who we are not.

In the first chapter of the gospel of John, we find John the Baptist illustrating such an idea. In this passage, John is confronted by some priests and Levites who came to ask him who he was. John 1:20 says, "He did not fail to confess, but confessed freely, 'I am not the Christ'."

Obviously, John was indeed a special man. Jesus himself testified about John the Baptist, saying that "among those born of women there has not risen anyone greater than John the Baptist" (Matt. 11:11). However, even though John was chosen for a specific task, and was honored greatly among men, he still remembered who he was not.

Surely, John the Baptist might have been tempted to think of himself more highly than he should have. I think that temptation comes any time we experience high honor or position of any kind. We like to think that we are better than others, or that we have accomplished great things. John was very wise to remember that he was not the Christ.

John kept in mind that no matter what praise men gave him, there was one greater than he, one whose sandals John considered himself unworthy to stoop down and untie.

We too must remain humble no matter what praise or position might come our way. For there is always might come our way. For there is always one greater than we. May our lives as Christians point to the one who is greater, the only one worthy to be praised.

Notice to Customers of Kentucky Power Company Proposed changes to the Environmental Surcharge Tariff

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on July 28, 2006, Kentucky Power Company (KPCo) will file with the Kentucky Public Service Commission (the Commission) in Case No. 2006-00307 an Application pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statutes 278.183 for authorization to make changes to the environmental surcharge for customer bills rendered on and after August 28, 2006 in accordance with proposed changes to Tariff E.S. KPCo is requesting the Commission to approve the proposed changes to the Tariff E.S. This tariff contains the environmental surcharge ratemaking formula and other terms and conditions. The proposed changes, if approved, will allow KPCo to apply a surcharge to all customer bills rendered on and after August 28, 2006 to recover additional cost of complying with the Federal Clean Air Act and other federal and state or local environmental requirements which apply to coal combustion wastes and by-products from facilities utilized for the production of energy from coal in accordance with KPCo's environmental compliance plan.

The full terms and conditions and ratemaking formula of Tariff E.S. are set forth below:

APPLICABLE

To Tariffs R.S., R.S.-L.M.-T.O.D., R.S.-T.O.D., S.G.S., M.G.S., M.G.S.-T.O.D., L.G.S., Q.P., C.I.P.-T.O.D., C.S.- I.R.P., M.W., O.L., and S.L.

1. The environmental surcharge shall provide for monthly adjustments based on a percent of revenues equal to the difference between the environmental compliance costs in the base period as provided in Paragraph 3 below and in the current period according to the following formula:

$$\text{Monthly Environmental Surcharge Factor} = \frac{\text{Net KY Retail E(m)}}{\text{KY Retail R(m)}}$$

Where:

Net KY Retail E(m) = Monthly E(m) allocated to Kentucky Retail Customers, net of Over/(Under) Recovery Adjustment; Allocation based on Percentage of Kentucky Retail Revenues to Total Company Revenues in the Expense Month. (For purposes of this formula, Total Company Revenues do not include Non-Physical Revenues.)

KY Retail R(m) = Kentucky Retail Revenues for the Expense Month.

2. Monthly Environmental Surcharge Gross Revenue Requirement, E(m)

E(m) = CRR - BRR

Where:

CRR = Current Period Revenue Requirement for the Expense Month.

BRR = Base Period Revenue Requirement.

3. Base Period Revenue Requirement, BRR

BRR = The Following Monthly Amounts:

Billing Month	Base Net Environmental Costs
JANUARY	$ 2,531,784
FEBRUARY	3,003,995
MARCH	2,845,066
APRIL	2,095,535
MAY	1,514,859
JUNE	1,913,578
JULY	2,818,212
AUGUST	2,342,883
SEPTEMBER	2,852,305
OCTOBER	2,181,975
NOVEMBER	2,598,522
DECEMBER	1,407,969
	$28,106,683

4. Current Period Revenue Requirement, CRR

$$CRR = [((RB_{KP(C)}) (ROR_{KP(C)}) / 12) + OE_{KP(C)} + ((RB_{IM(C)}) (ROR_{IM(C)}) / 12) + OE_{IM(C)}] (.15) - AS]$$

Where:

RB_{KP(C)} = Environmental Compliance Rate Base for Big Sandy.

ROR_{KP(C)} = Annual Rate of Return on Big Sandy Rate Base; Annual Rate divided by 12 to restate to a Monthly Rate of Return.

OE_{KP(C)} = Monthly Pollution Control Operating Expenses for Big Sandy.

RB_{IM(C)} = Environmental Compliance Rate Base for Rockport.

ROR_{IM(C)} = Annual Rate of Return on Rockport Rate Base; Annual Rate divided by 12 to restate to a Monthly Rate of Return.

OE_{IM(C)} = Monthly Pollution Control Operating Expenses for Rockport.

AS = Net proceeds from the sale of SO₂ emission allowances, ERCs, and NO_x emission allowances, reflected in the month of receipt. The SO₂ allowance sales can be from either EPA Auctions or the AEP Interim Allowance Agreement Allocations.

"KP(C)" identifies components from the Big Sandy Units – Current Period, and "IM(C)" identifies components from the Indiana Michigan Power Company's Rockport Units – Current Period.

The Rate Base for both Kentucky Power and Rockport should reflect the current costs associated with the 1997 Plan, the 2003 Plan and the 2005 Plan. The Rate Base for Kentucky Power should also include a cash working capital allowance based on the 1/8 formula approach, due to the inclusion of Kentucky Power's accounts receivable financing in the capital structure and weighted average cost of capital. The Operating Expenses for both Kentucky Power and Rockport should reflect the current operating expenses associated with the 1997 Plan, the 2003 Plan and the 2005 Plan.

The Rate of Return for Kentucky Power is the weighted average cost of capital as authorized by the Commission in Case No. 2005-00341.

The Rate of Return for Rockport should reflect the requirements of the Rockport Unit Power Agreement. Net Proceeds from the sale of emission allowances and ERCs that reflect net gains will be a reduction to the Current Period Revenue Requirement, while net losses will be an increase. The Current Period Revenue Requirement will reflect the balances and expenses as of the Expense Month of the filing.

5. Environmental costs "E" shall be the Company's costs of compliance with the Clean Air Act and those environmental requirements that apply to coal combustion wastes and by-products, as follows:

- cost associated with Continuous Emission Monitors (CEMS)
- costs associated with the terms of the Rockport Unit Power Agreement
- the Company's share of the pool capacity costs associated with Gavin scrubber(s)
- return on SO₂ allowance inventory
- costs associated with air emission fees
- over/under recovery balances between the actual costs incurred less the amount collected through the environmental surcharge
- costs associated with any Commission's consultant approved by the Commission
- costs associated with Low Nitrogen Oxide (NO_x) burners at the Big Sandy Generating Plant
- costs associated with the consumption of SO₂ allowances
- costs associated with the Selective Catalytic Reduction (SCR) at the Big Sandy Generating Plant
- costs associated with the upgrade of the precipitator at the Big Sandy Generating Plant
- costs associated with the over-fire air with water injection at the Big Sandy Generating Plant
- costs associated with the consumption of NO_x allowances
- return on NO_x allowance inventory
- 25% of the costs associated with the Reverse Osmosis Water System (the amount is subject to adjustment at subsequent 6 month surcharge reviews based on the documented utilization of the RO Water System by the SCR.)
- costs associated with operating approved pollution control equipment
- costs associated with maintaining approved pollution control equipment including material and contract labor (excluding plant labor)
- the Company's share of the pool Capacity costs associated with the following:
 - * Amos Unit No. 3 CEMS, Low NO_x Burners, SCR, FGD, Landfill, Coal Blending Facilities and SO₃ Mitigation
 - * Cardinal Unit No 1 CEMS, Low NO_x Burners, SCR, Catalyst Replacement, FGD, Landfill, and SO₃ Mitigation

6. The monthly environmental surcharge shall be filed with the Commission ten (10) days before it is scheduled to go into effect, along with all necessary supporting data to justify the amount of the adjustments, which shall include data, and information as may be required by the Commission.

However, the Public Service Commission may order changes to Tariff E.S. to be different from the proposed changes. Such action may result in a change in the environmental surcharge amount for customers to be different than the environmental surcharge amounts in this notice.
